TRIBUTE PAID TO DEHAVEN

Ben Perry DeHaven

By Mary Jane Gallaher

Memorial services for Ben Perry DeHaven, graduate of the University, who was killed in action while flying with the American Eagle Squadron of the British Royal Air Force, were held recently.

Pilot-officer DeHaven was described by the Rev. Gentry Shelton, who read the service, as the symbol of "Young America Flying."

DeHaven joined the RAF in September, 1941. He made his first flight over Nazi dominated Europe, just a month ago. In a letter to his parents written July 8, and received July 27, he said he couldn't reveal the nature of his work, but commented that "you can read in the newspapers about our flights over the Lowlands and Holland."

The report of DeHaven's death was made to his family by Captain F. W. Trout, a member of the RAF delegation in Washington, D. C. Captain Trout's message furnished no details regarding DeHaven's death.

University Atom Smasher Nears Completion

By Houston Thomas

The alchemist's dream of converting one element into another will come to pass locally in the near future when the Van de Graff or atom smasher is completed on the University campus.

Located in the rear of the Physics building, the atom smasher will make possible energy transformations which will be extremely interesting to physicists, chemists, engineers, and biologists. Dr. Pardue, associate professor in physics stated.

The atoms to be disrupted are placed at the lower end of a long cylindrical tube which is highly evacuated. From the top of the cylinder come the bombarding particles, propelled by a potent like charge on the aluminum dome of the smasher. They attain a high speed as a result of the large force

New Dept. Heads Appointed In Botany And Chemistry

The Board of Trustees recently announced that Dr. Herbert P. Riley and Dr. Laurence L. Quill will be added to the faculty this coming quarter. Dr. Riley is to take over the head of the Botany department while Dr. Quill is to become the head of the Chemistry department.

Dr. Riley comes from the University of Washington where he was associate professor since 1938. He graduated from Princeton with an A. B. degree. He later obtained his M. A. and Ph. D. from the same institution.

He was a member of many honorary societies, two of which were Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. He held the Maul Fellowship in 1930-31 and the Procter Fellowship in 1931-32. In 1932 he was awarded a National Research Council Fellowship for study at Bussey Institution.

Dr. Quill was formerly supervisor of the Division of Chemistry at Ohio State University. He graduated from Nevada University where he obtained both his B. S. and M. S. degrees. He later obtained his Ph. D. from the University of Illinois. He then studied for a short period of time at the University of Gottingen, Germany.

The students of the University of Ohio State hated to lose Dr. Quill because of his great ability to get along with them. One man stated that Dr. Quill was an excellent lecturer, "had great patience, and administrative ability and sympathetic understanding."

Col. Brewer Urges Special War Courses

Colonel B. E. Brewer, University ROTC Commandant, yesterday, stated his belief that the University should place emphasis on a basic understanding and thoroughness of special courses rather than a superficial smattering in a multitude of so-called defense courses.

He remarked, that special courses can be of great value for future work in the specialized branches of the United States Army, and competence in such branches would be a considerable factor in determining the qualifications of a soldier in the army for advancement.

Colonel Brewer said the Fifth Corps Area Commander confidently relied on the University authorities to select for immediate enlistment in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps only students who are fully qualified as officer candidates and are reported as such by responsible representatives of the Institution.

Haun Leaves U. K. To Assume New Post

Prof. Robert D. Haun

Robert D. Haun, professor of accounting in the University College of Commerce, left this week for Louisville to take up his duties as state price executive for the Office of Price Administrator.

The appointment of Professor Haun, who has been granted a years leave of absence by the University board of Trustees, is expected to accelerate organization of the University Board of trustees, is expected to accelerate organization for effective administration of the general maximum price regulations.

He will be under the supervision of George H. Goodman state OPA director.

Kernel Staff Meets Today

There will be a meeting of the Kernel staff at 2 o'clock, this afternoon in the Kernel News Room. All staff members, reporters, and new students, desiring to work on the Kernel, should attend.

Peterson Placed In Charge Of Air Raid Precautions

Frank D. Peterson, University comptroller, in charge of Air Raid Precautions on the campus, announced today that arrangements are now complete for University co-operation in a city-wide blackout, this month.

Military Department Adds To Staff

Two new members, Second Lieutenant Calvin W. Mays, and Sergeant Ralph E. Himes, have been added to the University Military department.

Sergeant Himes, was transferred from the fifth signal company stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Lieutenant Mays has just completed an officer training course at the Army Signal School at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

Both men are skilled in the details and function of military signal corps operations and have been stationed here to help operate and maintain the signal corps branch of the University ROTC.

Beers Speaks On Preparedness

Dr. Howard Beers, University professor of rural sociology, was the speaker in Memorial hall, Tuesday night, in the last of a series of summer session meetings.

Before an audience composed of University summer quarter students, teachers, and townspeople, Dr. Beers outlined the three broad responsibilities of the community in wartime.

He said the first responsibility of the community was that of preparation for defense against direct attack. While many people feel it useless or futile for inland cities to make such preparations, it is as useful as the average insurance policy.

The second responsibility is organization to aid the flow of contributions from persons and groups into the national war effort.

Dr. Beer's third main point emphasized that the community has the responsibility of "deepening its own integrity", of maintaining its identity as a local grouping, and of strengthening its social services.

This, he pointed out, is the only way to avoid the trend toward a totalitarian state.

Law Graduate Speaks At B. S. U. Meeting

Robert Denny, law college graduate and Baptist student secretary at Bayton College, Waco, Texas, will speak at a general meeting of the B. S. U. in the music room of the Union building next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

If Axis bombers should ever blast their way as far inland as Lexington, they will find University officials and students prepared and determined to prevent a second "Pearl Harbor."

While Mr. Peterson is serving as Chief Air Raid Warden on the campus, he has left the actual handling of details to L. C. Brewer, of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and E. B. Farris, Chief Engineer of the division of Maintenance and Operations.

Twelve Air Raid Wardens have been provided for the buildings and other property of the Experiment station under Mr. Brewer's supervision, and thirty such posts have been set up on the University campus under the management of Mr. Farris.

Warden Farris said a common misconception among most people was that in event of an Air Raid, the city could be blacked out by merely turning a switch at the electric plant downtown.

This idea, Mr. Farris stated, is fallacious. If the city was blacked out in such a manner many vital and necessary services would be disrupted.

In event of an air raid or practice blackout, Warden Farris declared every student should listen to the radio for the announcement and warning signal and to the sirens installed throughout the city.

It will be the duty of each person to see that all the lights in his or her room are extinguished.

If a building on the campus is damaged during an air raid, the information would be phoned in to Mr. Farris or Mr. Brewer, who would in turn inform the City Fire department, and the City Hospital if necessary, and also relay the information to the Central Civilian Defense Office downtown.

Mrs. Margaret Crutcher, in charge of the men's dormitories, will appoint student deputies on each floor of each wing of the buildings. Miss Margaret Lester will be in charge of the same procedure at the women's dormitories.

RADIO STUDIOS GET EQUIPMENT

By John Doddridge

What was described as "the latest in broadcasting equipment" by Mr. Elmer G. Sulzer, University publicity director, was installed in the University radio station, yesterday.

The importance of this apparatus, a dual recording machine costing $2,800, is that it enables radio engineers to make two recordings at once.

This equipment makes the studio independent of radio station WHAS and the University English department from whom they had borrowed recording equipment in the past.

The recorder was especially designed for use in the radio station by J. M. Graft of Louisville. The machine was one of the only two of its type remaining. Even though it had been assembled before government priorities went into effect, certain modifications had to be made.

The machine is a Fairchild dual speed recorder with two 16 inch turn tables. It is possible on this machine to regulate the spacing on each record, and to play them back without taking the records off the turn table.

The Stoic Sentinel

As we hurry along preparing ourselves and our country for the struggle that lies ahead, we have little time to think about such minor things as a sun dial. Our thoughts are occupied with guns, tanks, and ships. Many of us are worried about friends or relatives in the service or other problems of the day.

War brings changes to just about everything, so when something is found that remains unchanged, it is worth writing about. Some such thing has been found on our campus... a sun dial. This antiquated timepiece stands in the sunken garden in front of McVey hall.

In this ancient instrument we see more than a block of cement that daily counts the hours. We see what we are fighting for... the right to go on as we have in the past. The sun dial has weathered sleet, rain, wind and sun... yet, it stands... unmarred. We, too, can staunchly stand against anything which tries to blast our way of life... then, as the sun dial... we will return to normal existence.

These Are The Times

DeHaven, Ben Perry . . . Smith, Charles A. . . . Yankey, John S. . . . these are the names on our new roll call . . . the war dead.

For the first time, in this generation, America is beginning to understand what war means. Suffering and sacrifice at home are not enough. We shall have to endure the loss of those we knew and loved... our friends, our boyhood pals.

We cannot win this war by money alone. Buying defense bonds will help, but more than that is demanded of us. Many men must die before the price is paid in full. We must be willing to pay that price.

Blood, sweat, and tears will be of no avail unless we persevere in our determination to carry on this struggle, no matter what the cost may be, until Victory is ours.

Now you know what the war will cost. Yes, the price is high—but the good things in life are never cheap.

No Sacrifice Too Great

In the past few months there has been a good deal of criticism by educators and military officers alike over the disappointed and uncoordinated war effort programs on university campuses.

Many people have charged that the nation's manpower was being mishandled and wasted. The enlisted reserve programs at the various branches of the armed forces have openly and hotly competed with each other for recruits.

Now changes are being made. The new Army-Navy-Marine Corps Board will offer students the chance to hear the opportunities each branch of the service offers them before making their decision.

There has been talk of the government appropriating money to send deserving students without adequate funds, to college, where they could secure training that would be helpful to themselves and to the nation.

Upon graduation, the government would have first call upon their services.

This plan and many others similar to it, which would utilize the nation's students where they are most greatly needed, deserve serious consideration.

At this time, when the very life of the nation itself is involved, no sacrifice—no effort will be too great.

Vice of the People

BY ROY STEINFORT

Campus gossip has dwindled to a new low, my observant staff of operators report. Things are just in a mellow hess... We have been snooping around since last Friday with our little black memo book attempting to gather material for an all-campus column. To date, however, the most we can report is interference from the beloved U.S.O.

That's our biggest beef at the present moment. First, it was competition from the male members on the campus... The army settled that issue for me... Then coolly I relaxed on my haunches with a ready snare for some good damsel.

The snare was good, the damsel was good, but the U.S.O. was better.

My theme song now being entitled "She Turned Me Down For The U. S. O." or "Why Am I 4-F". Even with a major portion of the town's male members evacuated to Uncle S's happy congregation, I am a complete and dismal failure with the fair members of the weaker sex.

So if you have a lonely heart write your name and address on a penny postcard, and mail it to me. As I have stated before, I am draft proof with a heavy tread and a spare.

Seen And Heard Dept: Jimmy Morris, book store mogul, dining with his staff... Ralph McRight writing some letters back to Paducah... Newspaper men interviewing Coach Kirwan on the prospects of this fall's eleven... Joe Dunlap without a shave... Bill Portwood back on a furlough... Charley Nuckols talking about Littletown.

Wandering Reporter

by Mary Jane Gallaher

This week a survey was made on the campus among the men and women as to the attributes of their ideal of the opposite sex... Can YOU fill the requirements for the perfect individual of your sex?

THE PERFECT FEMALE

1. Good cook
2. Good looks
3. Pleasing charin
4. Kentucky farm
5. Swell date
6. Never late
7. Non-pretender
8. Solid sender
9. On the ball
10. "It"... that's all.

THE PERFECT MALE

1. Must have desire to tame the "wild-cat."
2. Original "line"... not for clothes.
3. Four good tires, a convertible
4. Poison-ality plus.
5. "X" gas rationing card
6. Absolute temperance... on Sundays.
7. Never late
8. Habitual cigarette carrier
9. Must have 100 pounds of sugar in reserve.
10. Not over-anxious or under-anxious.

LIFE'S PARADE

• By Jay Wilson

Life must seem funny to a ten-year-old.

It seems queer to me... and I'm really ten... just as any boy is as long as he can remember his first bicycle... or pony... or the fun he had going swimming with the gang... or the great things he was always going to do... sometime in the hazy future.

I guess I always wanted to be famous... until I was ten. It didn't matter just how it happened... bank robber... flyer... President... fireman.

With the ever bolder advance of Japan and Germany, however, a new idea took root in the minds of most ten-year-olds. It did in mine. The boyish manner of looking at life through idealistic glasses became a bit inadequate and a re-fitting seemed inevitable.

I got a new pair of glasses, alright! I even got a special windshield wiper—just in case my vision should go back on me. Gone are the ideas of kindness... gentleness... sportsmanship... thoughtfulness... gone—at least as far as the enemy are concerned.

I've got a new ambition. I'm going to be the fightin'est, toughest soldier I possibly can be.

It'll be hard... after all those years of home training. It won't be easy to kill... and wound... and suffer... and see others suffer. I know that. Every ten-year-old idealist that's carrying around a twenty-one-year frame knows it.

That's why I'm saying... "Get thee behind me, Satan. Get behind me... and push like the devil."

As smooth as grated tin.

Still, others who were beardless And considered it a sin.

For every woman here I say Our preference is the last.

Let males have chins of downy fluff.

Leave beards unto the past.

Beckskered ones, I pray you... Your finer side implore...

Thoughts At Random

By Lois Ann Markwardt

"But what does one do on a blind date with a soldier?"

The time worn cry again. It may sound like a laughable subject to some. It isn't so amusing, however, when a young man in khaki with a smile on his face and fifty cents in his pocket rings your doorbell and you know you must be prepared to enhance his evening and provide conversational material for his afterthoughts in camp.

One must know some simple rules for having fun without putting a noticeable dent in the doughboy's dough. Everything from trying leap frog to playing tiddle-de-winks with manhole covers goes. Money isn't everything to the person with personality per se.

There are unlimited ways to cut a path a mile wide, yet, still conserve the cash and keep 'em sighing. Why not round up a group of your equally distraught sisters and their soldiers and suggest things to do... things that won't cost much.

Conversation is always a good-time insurance, but remember, don't tell him about your little deaf sister Minnie or the new permanent wave you just got. Talk about him! If he is brawny (the Wallace Beery type) the chances are about 10 to 1 that he has toted a pigskin down the field, and you can talk about that... or, on the other hand, if he has that intellectual look, give out with a bit of comment on Shelley, Byron, and the other poetic big-wigs that you learned about in English Lit.

True, conversation wears thin after an hour or so, but there is always the old stand-by... a "vic." If he doesn't dance, he would probably just like to sit and enjoy the music, but if he likes rug-cutting... put a solid sending disk on the old jukebox and have at it.

If you are the right sort of hostess... I'm bettin' my wad that a certain soldier will return to camp and long remember his date with the "smoothie" at U. K.

The Free Lance

By Bob Warth

The labor organizer and the liberal intellectual, if we are to believe their respective journals, are in a perpetual state of moral indignation over labor conditions in the South.

Now it is a fact beyond dispute that the Bible Belt is considerably backward in many respects, but especially so in regard to the labor question. Many theories explaining the underlying reasons for this unfortunate state of affairs are to be had for the taking.

One, however, is sadly neglected in our opinion. It is bred by the general condition of mental stagnation, inertia, conservatism, and resistance to change which characterizes the peasantry and lower middle classes the world over. One of its common manifestations is a certain snobbishness and hatred toward the "inferior" class next below rather than envy or hate the next higher class.

Virtually, the same situation should be recognized under the Nazi regime—except that in Germany, Adolf Hitler, with his peculiar intuitive understanding of the psychology of the masses, has deliberately fostered anti-Semitism as governmental policy. Thus the Jew serves as a handy scapegoat by which internal unrest is siphoned off into a safer channel.

But coming back home again—it is hardly conceivable that the South will provide a fertile field for unionization or, indeed, achieve any of the necessary reforms, unless this class barrier is removed. And, speaking objectively as a student of history, the outlook is somewhat less than promising.

Now that the army has tapered down the size of the male animals on the campus, it's almost possible to call a gal on Friday and make a date for the following Saturday night.

So don't worry too much fellows, perhaps, there is still a chance. From the way some of our new freshmen are courtin' it appears that the old line boys will be confronted with opposition this September. Take Pete Daugherty, a freshe from Falmouth with blazing red hair. Oh, Pardon us, you couldn't take him 'cause KD Mary Saunders already has his heart tied down. He should have known better about the KDs His sisters wear KD jewelry.

It has been gently rumored around that "Hap" Day has discovered a new kind of a game—called post-office. At least that the report being currently circulated by Unregimented Lois Brand.

Put another strike down for the SAEs again. From all that we can gather in a snoopy sort of a way we understand that George Dudley of the Limestone Manor has this Patty McCarty singing SAE tunes, and liking it.

Tommy Ewing hurries home after every Friday's classes, for Ashland. He has to make hay while the sun shines. Football will soon cut in on his love life.

Norm Beck appears to be in good shape from his recent pix in the C-J with an armful of lovely cuties swarming around him. Oh, to be a football hero.

Jim Caldwell, former Kernel editor is in town this week. He's in the navy, but without a commission he was entitled to. He has hay fever and the navy said nix.

Understand from confirmed rumors that Kappa Sigma Harry Meadors is dating the big maroon sedan with no tread at all. Harry, tread is as essential as lipstick.

Pat Pennebaker is spending a small fortune writing letters to the boys in the services this summer. She has personality in her handwriting, it is rumored.

Virginia Wesley looks the part of the All-American gal with that luscious coat of tan. Saw Joe Dunlap squiring a new lalla palooza the other night.

This month the Columbia company gives us a neat little item listed as a Concerto in F for Piano and Orchestra. It's in the conventional three movements and was first played by the New York Philharmonic a little less than twenty years ago. It's what is called symphonic in character. Now, if somebody will call those jazz hounds back who just slipped out the back door and truss 'em up 'till we get through, we'll go on.

This particular concerto happens to have been written by one of our boys, George Gershwin, who is also known for some fairly decent jazz tunes; and if anybody starts the old argument about "symphonic jazz", we're going to hide behind Mr. Jackson's beard.

The Concerto in F is "Rhapsody in Blue" on a larger scale—more beautiful, we think, and certainly more artistically handled. It is played in this instance by Oscar Levant accompanied by the New York Philharmonic under, (honest), Andre Kostelanetz. But we're muttering into where our beards would be, if we had them, that we still like Sanroma's treatment, with the Boston "Pops".

Johnny Messner

Johnny Messner and his "Music Box Band" are considered one of the top-notch dance orchestras of stage, screen, and radio.

Messner's group displays a brand of music in some respects similar to that featured by the late Hal Kemp.

Gals Really On The Beam Don't Fit Into My Dream

By Tommye Stewart

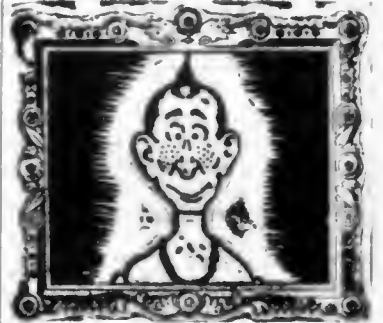

If a guy can just keep sorta draftless for a little while longer he's gonna' have one heck of a time now that the field of competition for the skits on the campus is narrowing down more day by day. The whole situation makes a fellow feel just a little more free to criticize the babes. Now that males are getting scarcer than the proverbial hen's teeth what gal is going to blackball any he-man that tosses a few of his ideas on the subject into the ring?

Wouldn't it be fun to meet just one girl who dressed more by "Bears" than by "Mademoiselle"—maybe one who'd never spent a night away from mother before she came to school—and never one away from the dorm since she arrived?

Just how long has it been since you've met a gal whose face didn't come out of jars or bottles—who didn't wear the "very latest" in haircuts—or who believed the purpose of wearing skirts is to cover the knees?

There must be a girl somewhere who's never heard of "dictation by braille"—one who actually believes that when one parks one gets out and goes shopping. There must be—but where?

Just mention any one female with no broken engagements or pinnings to her credit—or better still, one with no more past affairs than she can count on her fingers.

Sadie Hawkins

Ed. Note— Could this be what this "reverse" dream girl looks like?

I want a gal who won't go steady just to have a sure date for every blow-out—the type who doesn't think the size of the diamond the biggest thing about an engagement—and preferably one with no trace of baby talk in her brogue.

I want a gal who, figuratively speaking, has never been whittled down by a do or diet—the type who never keeps me waiting for a date—the type who doesn't rank money number one asset to a boy's personality.

That's the type I want—and that's what I'll find—as soon as they let me out of this darned padded cell.

World In Review

An independent India is, and has been, the dream of Mohandas K. Gandhi for years and now that the British have their hands full in the Far East, in Africa, and on the home front, he is threatening negotiations with Japan for the liberty of India.

The British, in a raid on the All-India Congress Headquarters in Ahmedabad, seized some documents including the original draft of a resolution drawn by Gandhi advocating that the Indians wage a war of civil disobedience in order to win their immediate release from British rule.

In a press conference Gandhi omitted parts of his proposed resolution advocating direct connection with the Nipponese but stated in part when referring to the resolution:

"Japan's quarrel is not with India. She is warring against the British Empire. India's participation has not been with the consent of the Indian people. It is purely a British act."

It is our fear that if the Indians should secure their freedom through their nonviolent strength, they would be vulnerable to Axis thrusts that would attempt to establish supply lines across the country.

In the first American-Chinese war operations, the Japs were thrown into a panic as the Chinese troops stormed the Jap held city Fuchow, the enemy stronghold in the Kiangsi province.

Despite downpours in the Monsoon region, American bombers smashed the Jap airdrome at Myit-kyina and menaced the air service carrying vital supplies to the Jap held sections of China.

"With the help of American air support, the Chinese armies will be able to meet the enemy on all fronts," Chinese General Wang Shin-chien reports.

Tuesday evening, Marion and Ruth Bradford, entertained at their home with a dessert-bridge; Thursday afternoon, Betty Jane Sledd with a bridge party at her home; and Thursday evening, Martha Hayman, was hostess at a dessert-bridge at her home.

Famous Movie Play To Be Presented

"Death Takes A Holiday", starring Fredrick March, Evelyn Venable, and Sir Guy Standing will be presented at 8:00 tonight, Great hall, Student Union building. Admission will be 10c.

The cinema is a mature and thoughtful poetic fantasy in which death, masquerading as a prince at a nobleman's house, comes to earth for three days to see why people fear him. It is not a morbid tale, but is pleasantly shivery.

University Co-eds Sell Tags For Saturday's USO Dance

president of the local chapter of the USO for the entertainment of soldiers.

"I gave, did you?" is the slogan seen all over the campus this week on USO tags worn by U. K. co-eds. The co-eds have been selling these tags in order to raise money for the USO dance to be held tomorrow night from 8:15-11:30 on the terrace in front of the Training School. In case of rain, the dance will be held in Great hall, Student Union building. Dee Akers and the K's will furnish the music.

Sixty-six soldiers on tour and additional soldiers and sailors in vicinity will be entertained by University girls, who are invited to attend.

Committee members in charge of selling tags and arrangements for the entertainment are Misses Agnes Smith, Hilda McClaren, Helen Simons, Virginia Hill, Joan Childers, Wilma Harper, Margaret Bradshaw, Dot Kirkland, Julia Ann Waters, Martha Kopplius, Marlon Johnson, Marion Kendall, Carola Spurr, Reba Smith, Rebecca Baker, and Jane Denny.

Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, announced Thursday, a supplementary list, to the roll issued July 17, of former University students now serving in the armed forces of the United States.

Prof. Gillis, chairman of a special committee for this work, stated that 363 names are included in the new list. Of this number approximately 100 were sent to his office, since the original roll call was published in the KERNEL, in July.

Prof. Gillis' office urged that persons when sending in names of men in the service, be sure and give their full name. Recently a card arrived at Prof. Gillis' office simply giving the name of a soldier as "Scotty" Hudson.

In another case, the name of a soldier was simply given as "James Johnson." Here also, an exhaustive survey had to be made before the right person was located.

All men in the armed forces of the United States are urged to write to the University, so that a record of their experiences can be compiled.

Coeds of the Macalester College Hyperion society have turned "shoe shine girls" in a drive for funds to buy gifts for Macalester men in the armed forces.

"COLONEL OF THE WEEK"

Jim Purser

This week's "Colonel of the Week" goes to Jim Purser, Arts and Sciences sophomore, from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Jim, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, has appeared in several Guignol productions at the University, such as "The Philadelphia Story" and "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

He has also worked at the U. K. studios both as an announcer and an actor.

In appreciation of these achievements, we invite you to come in and enjoy any two of our delicious meals.

Football Just Around The Corner . . . Kirwan Optimistic . . . Rupert Leaves

By DICK GILLESPIE

Like prosperity in '32, football season and the Georgia Bulldogs are just around the corner for the 1942 edition of the Kentucky Wildcats.

And wily Ab Kirwan, who starts his fifth season as 'Cat ringmaster, will have exactly 17 days to mold his Kentuckians for Frankie "Fireball" Sinkwich and company.

Faced with one of the toughest propositions that any Kentucky coach has faced in many a fall day, Kirwan retains an optimistic attitude about the shortness of practice before the Georgia game.

"The boys," he said, "are in the best of shape, and I believe that we will be able to tune up the machine in time to give a suitable account against Wallace Butt's eleven."

Clark Wood and Clyde Johnson, Kirwan's two big plugmasters of the tackle sector, have been doing manual labor all summer, and recently reported to Coach Kirwan in top-flight condition.

Wood, who last season weighed well over the two hundred mark, now scales the meter at 193, while "Big John" has wasted away to a mere 230. Last season, at this time, he was near the 250 mark.

Many of the 'Cats are in school this summer and every afternoon they take a few minutes off for some calisthenics and track work. Included in the lot are Bill Griffin, 230-pound tackle from Mayfield; George Sengel, end; Charlie Kuhn, flashy junior back; Charley Eble, junior end; Randall Hammer, junior half-back; Tommy Bell, junior halfback;

Bob Herbert, senior fullback, and senior tackle, Clark Wood.

The UK coaching staff suffered another setback this week when it was announced that end coach, Joe Rupert has resigned to accept the position as Director of Physical Education at the Ashland Kentucky Junior College. Rupert is a former Wildcat star, playing his last season in 1932. Besides being end coach, Rupert was head track coach at the University.

End

Phil Cutchin, (left) versatile halfback from Murray, Ky., will do a lot of Kentucky's punting and passing this fall. Charlie Kuhn, (center) Louisville product, is considered by many as the most promising Wildcat of the approaching season. Carl Althaus, (right) also from Louisville, will be on the receiving end of many of the Kentucky passes thrown this fall.

Leaders Down Phi Tau's 9 - 5 In Softball Opener

By Dick Eubanks

The intramural softball league got started Tuesday afternoon with the Leaders trouncing the Phi Taus 9 to 5.

Getting a bad start early in the game when the Leaders scored six runs in the first two innings, the Phi Tau's were never able to gain the lead.

Highlight of the game was the stellar pitching of Gus Green, Phi Tau pitcher, who struck out six of the seven men to face him in the third and fourth innings.

Parks, the opposing hurler, also pitched a good game, allowing only one extra base hit.

Navy Program Open To Eligible Students

The War Department yesterday authorized the University military department to enlist freshmen and sophomores in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps who desire to enter the Navy program at the end of their sophomore year.

Colonel John E. Brannon, announced that the quotas for the University are 94 freshmen and 77 sophomores. Applicants must have been citizens for at least ten years, unmarried, over 17 and under 20 years of age. They must be physically qualified for commissions in either general or limited service, and may transfer to Naval Class V-5 at any time, or to class V-7 at the end of their sophomore year if they are qualified by examination and remain in college until graduation.

Those who do not qualify for transfer to either class V-5 or V-7 will be permitted to finish the first two calendar years of college before being called to active service.

Class V-5 is composed of Naval Aviation cadets, and class V-7 of deck, engineering, and special service officer candidates.

West Virginia Ranks High In Enrollment

Kentucky's sister state of West Virginia sent the largest group of out-of-state students to the University for the first term of the summer quarter, according to figures released recently by the University publicity bureau.

The three states with the highest representation are West Virginia with 35 students, New York, with 30, and Ohio, with 27.

Of in-state groups, Fayette county is first with 338 representatives. Jefferson county is second with 59, and Bourbon and Kenton counties tie for third with 29 each.

Down Sports' Lane

BY DICK GILLESPIE

Ralph McRight, the University's new assistant football coach, arrived this week and began looking over the situation up in the athletic office.

I got my first look at him Tuesday morning and found his appearance all that could be asked of a gridiron instructor. He is tall, muscular, tan, and keeps a big smile always near the surface.

Ralph is an athlete's athlete. He has played, with varying degrees of success, nearly every athletic game. His football fame, as blocking back on Alabama's unbeaten team of 1931, is well-known as is his ability as a coach. He started at Hopkinsville, where a long line of clicking teams was originated. He attracted the attention of higher-ups in Paducah, and in 1937 he was called to Tilghman. There he won four straight conference championships.

While in Hopkinsville, he tried his hand at managing a baseball club, and though a great deal of fun has been poked at him about his alleged shortcomings as a Kitty League strategist, it is entirely possible that Mac was right (pun intentional) and the league was wrong.....it could happen in the Kitty.

A good many stories are in circulation concerning his speedy acquisition of ability as a golfer. And just as the saying goes about smoke and fire, where there are lots of rumors there is usually truth. At any rate, he becomes one of Paducah's best golfers.

And if this athletic experience isn't varied enough, add that he spent his summers supervising a Paducah swimming pool.

Ralph Mills, football coach at Hop-town, who is still being congratulated on his state championship team of last season, is spending a few weeks on the campus. He is taking the C. P. T. ground course and will in turn teach it in his high school. Don't be surprised if he gathers some new ideas for an aerial attack that will again place his boys at the top of the heap.

Child Illness Defers Former U. K. Athlete

A childhood attack of whooping cough kept Henry F. Wallace, former University athlete, out of the United States Army. Wallace captained the Kentucky Military Institute football team.

But no proof of his athletic powers could keep him in Uncle Sam's armed forces when officers of the medical corps discovered his childhood illness.

After leaving the University, Wallace, the son of Tom Wallace, Editor of the Louisville Times, worked for various well known newspapers in that area. He was employed by the Federal Communications Commission at Hat Rey, Puerto Rico, when he volunteered for service in the Army.

Wallace passed his first physical exam and was sworn in. However, at a later physical checkup army doctors discovered scars on his lungs resulting from the whooping cough attack and he was released from the army.

So today, as a result of an illness at the age of five, Henry Wallace is out of the army and out of his $3,800 civilian job.

In The Service

By "Sonny" White

Sherman D. Henderson, University graduate student, has been commissioned a lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve, and has reported for special training at a Naval school in the east. Lieutenant Henderson, received his Master of Arts degree from the University in 1940.

Jesse D. Willmott, University graduate, has been commissioned as an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve air force. Ensign Willmott, graduated from the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, Texas.

Joint Military Board Will Come To Campus

Soon after the University goes into the autumn quarter, September 21, a joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps Board will come to the campus. This board, composed of five officers, representing the various branches of the nation's armed forces, will give the students an opportunity to learn the details of each enlisted reserve plan.

Arrangements have been made for the establishment of nine such boards to cover the United States. The districts covered by these boards will correspond to the area of the nine Army Service Commands.

The joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps College Procurement Committee, recently returned to Washington, D. C., after a tour of the nation's universities.

The Committee discussed with educational authorities the plan of the armed services to work in close cooperation with each other and with the colleges to effect uniform procedures for the enlistment of college students in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps Reserves.

Students who enroll in the enlisted reserves are actually members of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps. While they maintain an inactive military status for the time being, they are regarded by the services as cooperating patriotically, for they are qualifying themselves to fulfill wartime needs by attending the University.

Although it is not contemplated that they will not be called to active duty until they have been qualified by their college training, they are subject to call at any time if the war situation demands it.

Any student in the enlisted reserves is subject to call to active duty as an enlisted man if he fails to graduate with his class or to meet the standards set up by the respective services for officer material.

Frosh Take Annual Drubbing To Prepare Varsity For Opening Tilt

WITH THE OPENING GAME with Georgia's Bulldogs only a few weeks away, Kentucky's Wildcats are already returning to the campus to begin preseason training. Each year, prior to the first encounter, the varsity plays the frosh in an "eye-opener" for local fans and alumni.

Annually the yearlings lose (as above in 1941) by approximately 50 points. Although the freshmen absorb plenty of punishment during the year, they are important in building a strong varsity squad.

"Make Mine A Short One..."

DEFENSE JOBS and the armed forces have taken so many young men from the campus, that co-eds find "dating" is one of their major problems. Three University co-eds (above) perch upon a hapless victim while they draw straws to see who gets him.

Co-eds Depend On Phone For Dates

"DATES" PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART in the lives of most college girls, and this co-ed is no exception. Receiving a call as late as 8 p. m., she can blitzkrieg into a suitable outfit and be ready to go out by 8:15.

University Eaglette Won Wings In CAA Course

MISS BILLY DYER (above), former UK co-ed, is one of the few girls who have taken the CAA course at the University. She was a member of the first flying course offered on the campus.

A Toast To Health

MISS BEULAH CROPPER (second from right) represented the University at a recent "Dairy Campaign" meeting at Louisville. Selected as "Dairy Queen" of the University, she was one of four delegates sent to the convention.
